MINE POINTERS.

In this country too little attention is paid to having good plans of mines: accurate surveys, accurately put on paper, with a system of contour plans say every ten feet properly plotted. Such records are very useful, not only for carrying on works, but serve as records which may be of service in future explorations. Some few of our large mines pursue this plan, but the system is by no means general.

matters none have led to more disastrous results than that of spending large sums on surface improvements before actual underground development war ranted it. Milling or milling plants, working machinery, wagon roads, tramways, etc., are of course necessary to big mines, but it by no means is the first necessity for them. There are more instances of wrecks of mining property from underground expenditures.

The plan of leasing mines is developing many good mines that would otherwise be idle, by this system, and men are given employment that pleases them. People in this country prefer to work for themselves where possible, and this syston is producing very good results wherever in vogue. A few years ago peculiar to man, never having been observ-

THE COLORED TROOPS.

The colored troops have reached Arizona by regular marches from New Mexico, and are now moving to their companies (or Troops) will be stationed at Fort Grant; three at Fort Thomas: one at Fort Apache; one at Whipple Barracks, and one at Fort Verde. We are not advised as to the station of the remaining company, but it will probably be at Fort Bowie, or Huachuca.

The Apaches do not fear the colored troops but have a contempt for them. They have received this idea from the New Mexico Indians, who have been in contact with them.

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION.

From the tenor of our dispatches affairs in Europe have nearly reached a point where war is necessary to clear the atmosphere. The air is full of it. Even little Denmark has voted ber war minister $250,-000 to strenghten her coast defences. France has stirred up ill feeling by her ac and Turkey sides with England in telling hat came back full of silver. THE LATEST.

Once more the European news-gatherers of the Associated Press, after working up the interest of Arizonans in the Anglo-Afghan-Russian affair until half the population were on the point of purchasing season tickets for the theater of war-for territorial life has been dull since the adjournment of the "bloody Thirteenth"are pleased to let the dove of peace spread her broad pinions o'er the land. The bear and lion will "put it there" over the widening chasm, and the twin-headed eagle will perch on the British unicorn's goreless horn. The staring headlines tell us that a compromise will speedily be effected; that the British representative at St. Petersburg and the Russian Minister of Foreign Affaire will meet and exchange compliments, and if terms of settlement be not agreed on there, that the dispute—if indeed there has been one-will be left to arbitration. By o-morrow's news we may confidently expect to receive the terms of agreement-or another declaration that war is inevitable. law partnership at Kingston, New
